Market Commentary

Equity markets delivered a strong positive performance in September, with the S&P 500 and the EuroStoxx 50 that have risen by more than 3%.

Geopolitics continued to have an important role in September. In early September a massive military parade event took place in Peking, with China's willingness to show to have key role in global affairs. In the same month, the Israel-Gaza war escalated even further.

Portfolio

As in previous months, we maintained a nearly fully invested option overlay (~100%), with an average tenor slightly above one month. The portfolio remains diversified, currently allocated 85% to the S&P 500 and 15% to the EuroStoxx 50. In line with our target return and risk framework, we continue to adopt a prudent stance: the portfolio delta is currently lower than 0.10.

Outlook and Portfolio Positioning

Uncertainty on geopolitics remains high, driven, as in the previous month, by the ongoing Russia–Ukraine war, the conflict in Gaza and uncertainty around U.S. trade.

Our financial market indicators continue to support a constructive view on equities. However, we remain cautious given the strong rally of recent months. We currently select option strikes between 5% and 10% out of the money, with an average tenor less than 20 days. Our active management approach enables us to capitalize on short-term volatility by opportunistically rolling positions.

There is no guarantee of trading performance and past performance is not necessarily a guide to future results. In particular the results and graphs above may contain hypothetical performance results. Hypothetical performance results are based on various assumptions and may have many inherent limitations, some of which are described below. No representation is being made that any account will or is likely to achieve profits or losses similar to those shown; in fact, there are frequently sharp differences between hypothetical performance results and the actual results subsequently achieved by any particular trading program. One of the limitations of hypothetical performance results is that they are generally prepared with the benefit of hindsight. In addition, hypothetical trading does not involve financial risk, and no hypothetical trading record can completely account for the impact of financial risk of actual trading. For example, the ability to withstand losses or to adhere to a particular trading program in spite of trading losses are material points which can also adversely affect actual trading results. There are numerous other factors related to the markets in general or to the implementation of any specific trading program which cannot be fully accounted for in the preparation of hypothetical performance results and all of which can adversely affect trading results. Hypothetical performance results are shown for illustrative purposes only and are not to be relied upon for making investment decisions. Clients must base their decisions on their own understanding of the strategy, the service or product and market views.

DIVAS Asset Management AG may act as a hedging advisor. Any hedging activities carry substantial risks. Hedging can involve short-selling of asset classes with unlimited downside risks in certain cases. Prospective clients hedging their portfolio might miss significant upside in the assets they hedge. Furthermore, there is always a bias between the assets being hedged, and the results of the hedging strategy (it is not possible to obtain a continuous hedge with a fix correlation of -1 over time). This bias typically increases in situation of market dislocations, as the assets being hedged are typically less liquid than the instruments used for the purpose of hedging these, and the losses of the assets being hedged become higher than the gains of the hedging strategy on the back of an increase in the liquidity premium.
